Greetings to our Maurice Hawk students and families,

American Education Week was first observed Dec. 4-10, 1921, sponsored by the National Education Association and the American Legion. A year later, the U.S. Office of Education joined as an additional co-sponsor. The National PTA followed in 1938.

American Education Week is now always celebrated the first full week before Thanksgiving. American Education Week takes place this year Nov. 16-20.

While this school year is anything but typical, the constant that remains is the dedication of our teachers and support staff. As you know, they have been working tirelessly to engage and support their students, in new, creative and innovative ways that none of us would have imagined a year ago. Please join us in recognizing and celebrating our amazing Maurice Hawk teachers to commemorate American Education Week.

Fall Book Fair - Nov. 9 - 22 - Our Maurice Hawk Book Fair is also offering selections for our Chinese DLI program. Are you interested in purchasing books written in Chinese? We will be hosting our first China Sprout online book fair this year! This is also a fundraiser for our school. A link to China Sprout's online catalog and a special code to use when shopping will be provided to all families soon. All book orders will ship free to Hawk or can be shipped to your home at an additional cost. Please contact Mrs. Ferguson, our Media Specialist, for more information at sue.ferguson@ww-p.org.
