- More Social = Less Sleep

- Teens who spend three hours a day on devices are more likely to get less than seven hours of sleep -» difficulty paying attention, lower grades, increased stress, interpersonal tension

- 60% of adolescents are looking at their phones in the last hour before sleep

- 36% of teens wake up and check mobile devices at least once at night -» excessive text messaging interrupts sleep

- Research is still exploring effects of blue light exposure on our brains

What The Research Says...

Social Media and Body Image/Eating disorders behaviors

- Social media promotes the idea of having an ideal body
- Increased time on social media is associated with increased risk of reporting eating and body image concerns
- Online communities that promote disordered eating - The “Thin Ideal” - Ana and Mia
- Recent research indicates that there is a correlation between time spent scrolling through social media apps and negative body image feedback

Social Media and Anxiety

- Increased use of social media platforms is associated with anxiety triggering symptoms
- Compare-and-despair factor
Fear of personal failure
- Low number of “likes” is associated and leads to development of negative thoughts
- Fear of missing out (FOMO)

Use of Social Media during Pandemic

- Maintaining communication with friends and family
- Reducing isolation and boredom
- Reducing psychological distress associated with anxiety related to pandemic
- Quick distribution and easy access to important information about safety protocols, treatment, personal protection equipment, and necessary home supplies
- High probability for the information to be false, inaccurate, and exaggerated
- Increase in fear, stress, depression, and anxiety

Use of Social Media during Pandemic

- Overall increase in daily screen time due to virtual learning
- 63% of teens are using social media more than they did pre-pandemic (only 25% said they use it less, and 12% say it's about the same)
- Most concerns about using Instagram and SnapChat
- 68% of parents believe social media affects their teen's ability to socialize normally
- 56% believe their teen has an unhealthy desire for attention/approval via social media
- Parents attempt to enforce rules for smartphone and social media use including how much, when, where their phone can be used and censor their teens' social media posts because parents felt it inappropriate.
- 80 % of parents relaxed rules about social media temporarily
- 46% reported they are more appreciative of social media's role in their teen's life, during quarantine

Impact of Social Media

Positive Aspects

- Connectedness, entertainment, creative use
- Possibility to work from home and to engage in virtual learning
- Different motivations for social media use
- More research is needed to explore possible positive outcomes:
 - increase in self esteem
 - perceived social support
 - safe identity exploration

Impact of Social Media

Negative impacts

- Decreased sleep
- Less physical activity
- Less time for schoolwork
- Reduced attention
- Less face-to-face interaction
- Affects healthy brain development

Exposure to :

- An unhealthy need for approval or attention
- becoming sexualized too soon
- not enough personal privacy
- Oversharing
- sexual predators
- hate speech
- an inability to focus
- being bullied and bullying others

The Takeaway

- Too much of anything can come with adverse consequences
- Social media helps students feel more connected, however, in excess students can feel more isolated
- Development of compulsive behaviors
- Online habits are problematic when they become compulsive or habitual, motivated by desire for mood alteration, related to offline interpersonal problems

Student Perspective

Self-Expression vs Self-Destruction

- Discovering one's self is crucial, it's a large part of adolescent life
- Proper instruction and guidance can help identify the positive aspects of social media
- Increased communication can be useful; helps foster relationships, convey information faster, etc
- Solving issues requires work from both parties (students and parents/teachers)
